The Retail Consumer Alliance Foundation, Inc. (RCA) was organized in 2008 to foster stronger community partnerships between consumers and the retail industry. We do this by funding an annual educational scholarship program and making annual contributions to Feeding the Carolinas food banks.

The applications are reviewed by an independent academic scholarship evaluator, and winners are determined based on objective, measurable point-based criteria established by the RCA Board.

Applicants agree that scholarship funds are to be used solely for educational purposes but are not limited to tuition only. If the applicant does not attend an educational institution in the school year for which scholarship funds were to be awarded or for a partial school year, the scholarship applicant acknowledges that they have no property or vested rights in the scholarship funds, that RCA maintains all rights to these funds, and the funds shall be returned to RCA by the educational institution.
